

Hello,

I am Davide Agrusa. I was born in Palermo, Sicily, but I raised in a small town located a few miles west Palermo, nearby the airport. Before starting to work in tourism I got a degree in political sciences and sociology. I have been working as a tour manager for almost 15 years and I am really in love with my job, since it stimulates the great passions of my life every single day, such as travelling, meeting new people, staying in touch with art, heritage, landscape, gastronomy of my beautiful land and also, it gives me the opportunity to practice the foreign languages I am able to speak, which are english, spanish and portuguese. I also love reading, listening to modern music, cooking and travelling by myself. In the past I used to play the clarinet in the band of my town and sing in a local choir. I am tolerant, patient and helpful in my job and I am looking forward to welcome new tourists' groups.

Hope to see you in Sicily!

Davide
